November/December 2021

The Director's Message

Greetings Lake Shore LCOC Members,

2021 seems to have gone by quickly. We finished up the years planed events with our traditional Membership Meeting held at White Fence Farm in Romeoville, Illinois. Outlined at the meeting where some of the planned events for 2022 that include the Winter Party in January, a trip to the Volo Car Museum in February. The Western National Meet that was postponed in 2021 will be held in May in Palm Springs, California. Also, in May the Lake Shore Region will be going back to the Sandwich, Illinois Car Show and Swap Meet.

There will be news coming out soon about a "Lincolns in the Woods" event planned for later in the summer that sounds very interesting.

Our postponed 2021 National Meet has been rescheduled for September 2023 and will still be held in Springfield, Illinois and beginning that year a new schedule for two instead of three national meets each year will be implemented. The schedule will have an Eastern National Meet and a Mid-Continent National Meet the first year (2023), a Mid-Continent National Meet and a Western National Meet the second year (2024) a Western National Meet and an Eastern National Meet in year three (2025), then a Grand National hosted by LCOC in Gilmore (2026). After that the schedule will repeat.

Other personal news, in September my 97 Town Car was totaled when a woman without insurance or a driver's license ran a red light. Tessa and I went to the emergency room with minor injuries mostly caused by the air bags and have mostly recovered. I replaced the wrecked car with a 2007 Designer Series with a carriage roof that dad found locally. It's a pretty solid car and has many good years left in it. Hopefully Tessa's first ride in an ambulance will be her last. Speaking of Tessa, she has written an article for this issue of our newsletter. I hope you all enjoy it.

Lets get out to our 2022 events,
Bill Fletcher - Lake Shore Region Director

‘Round and About...

Remember....you heard it here first!!

Did you hear.....

Over the years, movie stars, singers and sports figures have owned Lincolns. Even former Presidents rode in Lincoln's in their motorcades. Here are a few.

Movie star Joan Crawford owned a 1938 Lincoln Model K.

Rita Hayworth poses by her 1941 Lincoln Continental given to her by Orsen Wells. The movie star owned a few Lincoln's during her time.

Frank Sinatra moved into automotive High Society with a Continental Mark II. At $10,000 in 1956, Frank Sinatra famously paid more for his 1956 Continental Mark II than a new Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud cost at the time. He drove the car around his haunts in Las Vegas and Palm Springs for years.

Why you should join the Lincoln and Continental Owners Club.

By: Tessa Ketelsen

Reason one is because about every month we have an event like a car show, a competition or someone will make a reservation at a restaurant. Also like a car show it might be close or far, depending on where you live, but we do it about every month like last year we went to Colorado and it was lots of fun. We do a lot of events here and there so if you joined the LCOC you could see what kind of events we do in the Lincoln club.

Another reason you should join is because there are about 2,000 people in the LCOC and about 30 or more join every year so we are making a lot of new friends fast, but you could make the number more by joining the LCOC, we would love to have more people to join our club. Also, the more people that are joining our club are making our population bigger and better so just you joining could make a big difference in the club. The more population we get the bigger our club gets one day we could be the best car club out there, so just you joining and telling others about the club makes a big difference in our lives.

Also a common place we go is Dog n suds if you have never heard of them you could join our club and find out, we do a lot of events at Dog n suds, we go there a lot its a common place for us at least its kinds far to some people but for some it might be super close to you, but when we go there we might have trophies to win for the best Lincoln there, every meet we have or event not all of the people come that are in the club only the ones who can make it to the event or meet up sometimes we have morning meets where we go somewhere to eat breakfast and talk about are next or coming event like what we are going to do there or when it will be where it will be or the main events that will happen there. We try and figure out who is coming before we start it because all the planning and we will need to know who is coming and who is not coming to the event some people come when they say that they can't come that is why we always make extras for some people that surprise and come to the meet or event. We also might be going to a different state that might take a couple of days depending on where- you live but the farther you go the more scenery you get to see on the way.

100 years of Lincoln Automobiles

By Bill Fletcher

After leaving Cadillac in 1917 following a dispute with William Durant regarding war production, Henry M. Leland with his son Wilfred founded the Lincoln Motor Company in 1917 with a contract to build Liberty aircraft engines under license for the U.S. government. The Lincoln Motor Company was a final assembly point for the engines. Parts for the engines were sourced from Ford, Buick, Cadillac, Marmon, and Packard. By the end of the war, Lincoln would employ 6,000 workers and build 6,500 Liberty V12 engines.

In January 1920, Lincoln Motor Company was reorganized as an automobile manufacturer, retooling its Detroit factory to produce automobiles. On September 16, 1920, Lincoln Motor Company built its first automobile, a 1921 Lincoln Model L (L for Leland).

The 1921 Lincoln Model L catalog listed fifteen body styles plus a bare chassis to be clothed by outside coachbuilders. Wheelbase sizes included 130- and 136-inches depending on the coachwork selected. The 357.8 CID eight-cylinder engine with 81 horsepower was backed by a three-speed sliding gear transmission with floor shift controls, and multiple disc and dry plate clutch. Stopping power was provided by mechanical brakes on the rear wheels, and twelve spoke wood artillery wheels with dismountable rims were on all four corners. Optional equipment included front and rear bumpers, dual side-mount spare tires and side-mount covers.

Among the innovations introduced on the 1921 Lincoln were an automatic tire pump, thermostatic radiator shutters, circuit breaker electric system, and a sealed cooling system with condenser tank.

The first year Lincolns were mechanically advanced and innovative, but the coachwork was mundane. That and slow delivery of finished automobiles, some customers waiting nearly a year for delivery drove the Lincoln Motor Company into receivership.

Enter Henry and Edsel Ford. In February 1922 the Lincoln Motor Company was sold at a receiver's sale to the Ford Motor Company. By now things had come full circle as it was Henry M. Leland who founded Cadillac in 1902 from what had been Henry Ford's second attempt at an automobile manufacture that he, with investors bought out of receivership. Edsel Ford, Henry's only son, was named president of the company. Edsel provided the direction and inspiration for the Lincoln motorcar for the rest of his life. He immediately went to work acquiring designs from the top U. S. coachbuilders to invigorate the Lincoln motorcar. Under Edsel Ford's leadership The Lincoln motorcar was soon recognized worldwide as one of the world's premier motorcars.

The Liberty engine was America's most important contribution to aeronautical technology during World War I. The U.S. government, which wanted a standard design in 4-, 6-, 8-, and 12-cylinder versions that could be quickly mass-produced to equip U.S. combat aircraft.

Henry M. Leland and his son Wilfred founded the Lincoln Motor Company in 1917. The first model followed in 1921, called the Model L, and came equipped with a 358 cubic-inch L-head 60-degree V8 engine.
